

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

One piece integrally molded frame members that fit against each other to form a support frame having an article retaining recess therein.

1. A support frame comprising a first frame member and a second frame member, the first frame member and the second frame member being integrally molded together to form a support frame having an article retaining recess therein.